PECCATA, ERRATA, ET CONFUSIONES

In addition to the phenomenally small number of typographical errors in Volume 29, most of which were of utterly no significance, the "received—accepted" data were omitted from all the articles in issue no. 1, for Jan 1982. No one has complained about this, but my apologies anyway.

Benedict and Major: received 18 May 1980; revision accepted 11 Nov 1980.

Meinke and Constance: received 6 Jan 1981; revision accepted 23 Mar 1981.

Wendt and Todsen: received 17 Feb 1981; revision accepted 26 Mar 1981.

Minnich: received 25 Feb 1981; revision accepted 1 May 1981.

Cook: received 27 Mar 1980; revision accepted 29 Jul 1980.

Conard and Radosevich: received 11 Jul 1980; revision accepted 27 Dec 1980.

John Strother also informs me that he would have preferred the illustration in his paper (Dicoria, Fig. 1, 29(2)) to have been rotated 90° counterclockwise. He is right. It would have been better and would have taken less space.

We also apologize for the collating error that resulted in a number of deletions in Madroño copies sent to the Bay area.
